Host(s): Dan Smoke, Mary Lou Smoke
Guest(s): Jessica Smith

DAN SMOKE: Okay, aanii! Boozhoo! Sge:no! Shekoli! I'd also like, at this time, to thank some volunteers of Smoke Signals who have, you know, above and beyond the call of duty have come in and helped us out here while we've been away travelling and going out to get information, get the footage that we bring back to you when we come back. And we want to publicly thank Connie, who was our host two weeks ago. Want to thank Les Cardinal and Jessica Smith who came in last week to host the show, and the week prior to that, Andy Stevens who came in with his guest Steven State. And who are going to be taking part in an event on March the 19th at the London Public Library. It's a Wednesday night, and it's a night to commemorate the International Day to Eliminate Racism. And normally, this would've taken place on March the 21st, I believe, which is a Friday, but I believe the library is booked that night, so they're going to do it on the 19th.

So, we hope that you might want to come out and see this public event. There's many community groups that are organized to take part and give presentations, and Mary Lou and I will be doing the closing ceremony for that evening. We've been involved now for the past three or four years in this event, so it's growing, it's getting bigger, it's getting better. Now we're going to hear some announcements of different events taking place in and around London territory and surrounding area.

[MARY LOU SMOKE and JESSICA SMITH continue with community announcements.]

DS: Miigwetch, nya:weh, Mary Lou and Jessica. I just have one announcement to add to that.

[DAN SMOKE continues with community announcements.]

DS: Right now, we want to...I think we may be coming to a close for this week. We have scheduled right now Robby Bee & The Boyz from the Rez, and this is from their CD entitled Reservation of Education. This is distributed by SOAR Records, Sounds of America Records, and this is the song "Ebony Warrior," here on Smoke Signals.
